

Special Populations

What is the Special Populations Program?

The mission of Savannah Technical College's Special Populations Program is to assist all students who are members of defined population groups with removing and/or overcoming academic, career, and economic barriers. The program assures Special Population Students equal access to recruitment, enrollment, job placement activities and the full range of technical education programs and activities.

Who is a Special Populations Student?

- Students with Disabilities (see Disabilities Services for more information)
- Single Parents including single pregnant women
- Displaced Homemakers (separation or divorced from spouse or widowed)
- Students with limited English proficiency (English is not the native language)
- Students preparing for a non-traditional career field (examples: male nurses or female automotive technology students)

What Services are Available?

- Admissions Counseling
- Assessments including COMPASS/Asset Testing (see the Testing Center for more information) and Career Assessments (referral for Career Services is provided)
- Lending Library
- Quarterly Workshops for Special Populations including Academic and Life Skills Seminars
- Community Resource Referral

How Do Students Enroll?

Students are strongly encouraged to attend New Student Orientation during the registration process and to complete the New Student Form to declare their special population status. If a student cannot attend an orientation session, he/she can make an appointment with the Special Populations Coordinator at 912.443.5715 or visit the Student Success Center in the Administration Building.

Robert T. Solomon
Special Populations Coordinator
Telephone 912.443.5715
e-mail: rsolomon@savannahtech.edu

Savannah Technical College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, gender or disability.